logically.locally.

← To improve the security of our members' web/digital banking, you will be prompted to change your PAC (your password) to an extended PAC format the first time you login, on or after May 14, 2019.

As fraudsters get smarter about how they access our Members accounts, it's important that we also get smarter about strengthening security. One of the simplest ways to improve the security of our members' web/digital banking is to implement longer Personal Access Code (PAC) requirements.

On or after May 14, 2019 you will be prompted to change your PAC to an Extended PAC format the first time you login.

Personal Access Codes must be between 8 and 30 characters and must have a mix of:

- ← upper and lower case alphabetic characters
- ← numeric characters
- ← one or more of the following special characters: @ # $ - !
